Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-19, drawn to a microarray, classified in class 435, subclass 287.2.
 - II. Claim 20, drawn to a method for detecting an analyte, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
 - III. Claim 21, drawn to a method for fabricating a microarray, classified in class 435, subclass 283.1.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:
 - a. Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process i.e. the microarray of Invention I can be used to isolate and/or bulk purify analytes.
 - b. Inventions I and III are related as product and process of making the product. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the process of making the product can be used to make other and materially different products i.e. the method of Invention III can be used to make a polymer gel on a substrate.
 - c. Inventions II and III are independent and distinct. Inventions are independent and distinct if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different functions. The method of Invention II functions to detect an analyte and the method of Invention III functions of provide microspheres on a substrate.

Art Unit: 1634

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. A telephone call was made to Mathew Buchanan on 25 June 2003 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

5. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
